I don't usually get this excited about a speaker announcement, but I'll make an exception here.

When we were putting together the keynote lineup for Summit of the Titans II, Prof Keith B. Carter was the name I kept coming back to. So I'm really pleased he's confirmed for 9 June.

Here's what made him stand out for me. A lot of people are talking about AI right now, and honestly, plenty of it is noise. Keith is one of the few who has actually done it at scale. He spent 13 years at Estée Lauder running their global supply chain, where his work scaled procurement from $1 billion to $3 billion and, in one stretch, delivered $87 million in value in nine months. Those are real numbers, not slideware.

What I like even more is that he then went and taught it. He became an award-winning professor at the National University of Singapore, founded the NUS FinTech Lab, and has spent years helping executives, and even governments, figure out what AI and automation actually mean for the way they work. He's a two-time TEDx speaker and wrote "Know Decide Act," which is basically his playbook for turning all of this into action.

So if you keep hearing about AI but aren't quite sure what to do about it, for yourself, your team, or your business, this is the morning I'd clear my calendar for. It's practical, it's grounded, and getting someone like Keith in the room for free doesn't happen often.

Details: 9 June, 9am to 1.30pm, in Petaling Jaya. Entry's free but seats are limited, so if you'd like one, comment below or drop me a message and I'll send you the details.

Would be great to see some of you there!

Would really love to attend in person Dr. Chanthiran V.R PhD, MBA, FCMI, SPHR\(I\) & Shankar Nagalingam . Unfortunately I've been in the Philippines for the last 2 months and will only be back on the 3rd week of June. Hope to catch up with the both of you once I come back to KL. Wishing you a successful event in advance. Cheers!
